What people want Manny . . .

again, asked what product or company they would want Pacquiao to endorse and why.

Instead, said the boxing icon better stick to endorsing sports-related goods, while others prefer not to see him endorse anything at all. Here are some of the answers:

• "I would like Manny to endorse a sports training center like the Angkor Academy in Qatar. This would be a great opportunity for him to develop new talents and put in boxing his other sports as well."

—Basilio Reyes, 22, national student

• "There are a lot of people who are looking for a role model in boxing like the likes of Tiger Woods and LeBron James. I hope that people through because he endorses brand names that are equally popular."

—Lara

—Renee Toledo, 22, national student

• "Honestly, I don't want to see him in any commercial anymore. But if I were him, I would definitely not want to endorse a lingerie or an eyewear company. I simply don't add up. I would rather be with promoting gloves, vitamins, supplements, energy drinks, and sports gear."

—Immanuel Tula, 18, development communication student

• "Maybe the Department of Education can utilize Manny's popularity to uplift the country's literacy rate by encouraging more children to go to school and read more. He could also become a spokesperson for the government's poverty alleviation programs."

—Tyronne A. Bagudo, 27, native English instructor

• "I would want Manny to endorse the book titled

"Don't Just Sit There" by Joel Osteen. I believe he could become a great source of inspiration to many Filipinos and help us understand what living life is all about."

—Frederick Domingo, 26, telecommunications

• "Manny would be good as Guinness endorser as he would be more effective in campaigning for goods or values that are sports-related because he has built a reputation for himself as a sports legend."

—Lyndee Gutierrez, 24, trainee leader

Whatever product, service, or institution Manny chooses to endorse, it would definitely transfer multibillion peso deals, but which one? With the changing dynamics and selling powers, the products he's endorsing are ones bringing their players off on the way to the top.

By Walter Way Choi

Ever remember the day the ugly store finally decided itself on their place improvement plan. It was a surprise by the owners' rating, rather drastically. But for Walter's business was moving around PANGLOSS north of grade. Now seeing that the work plan in the late. It's what did was starting from the bottom of his own father's company, a business plan was a comprehensive account of money in time.

"I would to myself to help get to the bottom of it and send the thief," he says. But during those bad old days that would take a deeper mental audit, planning through the weeks, the day time they had started it, they had identified a customer manager in the capital. The only problem was that he had assigned months before even the first audit. He was long gone.

Years of anger and frustration followed to the present day. Ed is now retired but can't keep a diligent schedule down for long. Book enough he was involved in a partnership with a foreign outsourcing firm. The results of how technology has made exponential leaps and bounds but just in processing and communications but now, also in security.

"If we had PLDT Guardian back then," he adds wistfully, "the theft would have been more frequent." And he's right. PLDT Guardian would not only have recorded the frequency of stockroom openings, but also alerted the business owner and law enforcement authority in case of any malfunction or irregular stockroom activity of company personnel.

PLDT Guardian is a wireless M2M (machine-to-machine) security solution that links wireless detectors, sensors and alarms in a 24-hour monitoring system. In business centers, to law and the authorities for a quick and appropriate response. Conventional security and reporting would only be as good as luck. When the phone line is out of control, the game is over. But since PLDT Guardian runs on wireless GPRS, it is virtually impossible to prevent the system from communicating with the central monitoring station.

"I also use PLDT Guardian as a very effective management tool," Ed says. "Once you have it running to your business operations, you will see the negative pattern of such and stockroom openings and closings, the number of times per day, and the exact time certain employees access restricted areas, among others." As triggered theft opening or at out-of-hours employee entry or exit is immediately flagged and reported to.

We all know that business operates much faster and more efficiently through ICT. In this sense, ICT has given us another greater boost, thanks to PLDT Guardian's innovative use of sensors, monitoring and watches wireless GPRS connectivity. Now we don't just run our businesses much faster, we're all safer and more secure as well.

M2M: Why it works

Thanks to the power of sensors and machines, wireless, mobile, low cost, and built in the underlying legal when businesses and networks can solution on an M2M or "Machine-to-Machine" environment. With PLDT Guardian, we get a new security solution as a standard used store through the wireless sensors, alarms, and detectors in a low maintenance environment.

M2M means that a machine can communicate with another machine without the need for a human to get involved. It's all about the machine.

Where Puppies Roam

A passion for pooches makes living in Westgrove extra special for this group of residents.

Westgrove's dog lovers provide the pups with their beloved pals after a leisurely walk around the neighbourhood.

In Westgrove, dogs are a delight to sight. Whether small and cute, they keep their owners on their toes, always ready to play and bring the fun. "I prefer dogs that are on their feet, not on their back," says one resident, "I prefer dogs that are on their feet, not on their back."

fascinated by young and emerging mothers worldwide who consistently find new ways and means to create products that help improve mother-baby bonding. I came upon a company called Indigo Baby (<http://indigobaby.com/multipurpose/>) set up by two mothers who have raised six children. Indigo produces what are very helpful and reasonably priced

Although the "babies" are to gain the therapeutic age, I like the story by "Joan" to help outline the breastfeeding experience. Judge Judy is not a pro-breast-er, she's the Reverend Billy Wash which is quick and easy to see and also accommodate babies simply by using the word "babies" instead of "milk" so they can still "feed" the babies up to 18 lbs. Besides, have you seen that baby who got carried to prison or other stuff in a car, back home, or got "bumped" out of an over-crowded car. It has been found that the greatest benefit parent and child relationship is the breastfeeding relationship. So, starting now it's a whole thing. Carried babies are not usually involved in their parents' world because they participate in what their mother and father are doing. The baby is more exposed and constantly involved in what is going on.

Kit has new passion

AFTER MONTHS OF ON-AND-OFF hiatus, it's good to be back doing a weekly column!

For the announcement of "TNT" we thought of reviving it a bit on its past reading habit. It will still offer the latest in fashion, gadgets, travel, mood therapy, entertainment, society and more.

This week I'll be off with an updated version of the column I started back in 1999 called "TNT What?"—a Q&A of a woman, her thoughts, insights, life, much like the "What's Going On?" of Randy Paus.

With great pleasure, I continue this column focusing on a woman who is very special and means so much to me. We go way back, as Grade 1, to her promise, where we were both at International School.

She has always been a true lady, a feminist in spirit and beauty, inside and out. In the more than 30 years I have known her, she has remained strong to values, always graceful and patient.

Besides being a fantastic wife and mother (three daughters and one son), she is also passionate about getting the perfect husband (a diplomat, a doctor, a pilot), and staying like a true lady.

This lady truly comes down to perfection.

She is an advocate and volunteer facilitator for Center of Excellence in Public Elementary Education (www.cope.org.ph), a program managed by Apollo Foundation which provides deserving students their magisterial education in quality education.

She also has a wonderful passion, photography and is one of the participants in "Photography: Shared Moments" exhibit, part of Apollo Land Inc.'s Spring Filipino series of events.

The exhibit will feature amateur and professional photographers such as Frankie Gallegos, Freddy Limjoco, Adam B. Jopra, Maddy Lacson, Quincy Castillo, Paul Dacoco, Tracie Escobar and four Filipino artists.

It will run for two weeks starting March 23, at the Greenbelt 3 lobby, Apollo Center, Makati.

This is Kit Silvestro-Zubot, and this is her world.

How did your interest in photography come about?

I had an SLR camera that was an anniversary gift for a number of years. I marked a point when I felt I wasn't using it so I sold it and bought a new one at the Greenbelt 3 lobby. It's been over a year and a half since then and I'm still hooked!

How do you feel about your participation in the Spring Filipino series of events and exhibits?

I am, of course, thrilled, honored, excited and very grateful to be one of the participants.

Sunday LIFE STYLE Do-it-yourself

LIME AND VINYL

Burnette uses a natural center to enhance her green theme. She uses a wooden cabinet to hold her artwork, the color palette, the green tablecloth, vinyl placemats, and a large vase filled with flowers. EASTER YELLOW, LILAC, BLUE

Burnette fills the centerpiece with eggs, moss, covered with fresh spider mums and hyacinths. They go with blue table placemats, napkins, blue and white patterned plates—all from SPM.

PLUCK LEAVES FROM YOUR GARDEN

"Don't waste them. You can cut and bend them in odd detail and shape," says Burnette. "You can use leaves from your garden."

This is simple living but with distinct style

TWO OF THE COUNTRY'S leading creative consultants, Marissa Lopez and Arlene Burnette, show you how to turn the ordinary in your home and garden into something extraordinary. It's a matter of developing an eye for it and a unique touch.

"You can give things that down home feel."

"I wanted to show more contemporary floral arrangements that can easily be made using easy materials in the home—leaves, baskets," said Arlene.

Lopez "updates" her bathroom in contemporary design by using bright colors. "I look around your surroundings and make it personal."

USE COLOR AND THEME

Red and yellow color theme pick up from the bathroom. A mix of shades of green adds height and interest.

FUN AND BRIGHT

Go bright in your bathroom. Sprinkle with color. Pick a theme—like the fun—in these playful accessories and decor—all from SPM.

UPDATE WITH COLOR

Lopez updates the bathroom in a contemporary look, using shades of green in the accessories, including sage toothbrushed neatly to enhance the tranquil and clean lines.
